

Raffle

Once again as part of its fundraising effort, the MOA is holding a raffle in support of its forthcoming conference in Jena. And once again, Imprint Academic has put up the bulk of the prize – their full holding of Oakeshottiana which this year will include Oakeshott’s eagerly awaited The Concept of a Philosophical Jurisprudence: Essays and Reviews and Andrew Sullivan’s Intimations Pursued: The Voice of Practice in the Conversation of Michael Oakeshott. Other participating publishers are Yale and Liberty. In all, the prize is worth in excess of $1,000.

There are only 50 tickets on offer, each ticket costing $50. Tickets are available on a first-come first-serve basis. The draw will take place at the conference.

As the MOA has provisional 501(c) 3 status, your donations are fully tax-deductible (letters of acknowledgement will be sent out). Please send your checks payable to the “MOA conference account” with a covering note specifying the number of tickets you wish to purchase to:

Professor Martyn Thompson
344 Lowerline Street
New Orleans, LA 70118

